

DONS, DONAS DANCE WITH TIGERS TONIGHT

FESTIVITIES BEGIN AFTER GAME IN CAFETERIA AND STUDENT LOUNGE

S. A. C. students will dance with Tigers tonight as they host Riverside college students tonight in a dance to be held in the Student Union following the Dons vs. Tigers game. This is the first after game dance that the students from the visiting college have been invited.

The music will be provided by some of the nations top artists on wax. A fee of 35 cents will be charged for all who are not ASB card holders. Guest cards may be obtained from Mrs. Hazel Gish in room G-71 before three o'clock today.

Dutch War Bride Speaks to YWCA

"The people of the United States do not fully realize the many wonderful opportunities and privileges their country affords," stated Mrs. John, a Dutch war bride, in her speech at the YWCA meeting on Wednesday, October 3.

Mrs. John, who has lived in the United States for five years, spoke both on life and customs in Holland and on her impressions of this country. She stated, "the greatest difference between the two countries is the extremely fast pace at which the Americans live." She believes that this is due to the great number of automobiles in this country, where as in Holland transportation is, for the greater part, dependent on the bicycle.

Highlighting Mrs. John's speech was the story of her courtship and marriage to Mr. John during World War II. Both Mrs. John and her husband are active "Y" workers.

Following Mrs. John's speech a business meeting was held to discuss plans for a potluck dinner to take place on Wednesday, October 17. Elsie Kittelsen, president, asked for volunteers to serve as check-girls at the All Nations Festival on October 19 and 20.

New Attendance Secretary at SAC

Helen Crawford, Attendance Secretary for SAC for the last four years, resigned Friday, October 5, 1951. Her successor is Mrs. Irma Colombo, the wife of the Physical Education Director at the Southern California Bible College, and a former employee at the Security National Bank in Beverly Hills.

Assembly Sparks SAC Students to Join Crusade for Freedom Today

Speaking on the current Crusade for Freedom drive, Bill Winterbourne, representative of the Crusade, addressed the SAC student body at the pep rally Friday morning. The Crusade, for Freedom, held nationally, is being sponsored in this area by the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The purpose of the drive is to raise money for the construction of three short wave broadcasting stations — two in Europe and one in Asia. Also Crusade for Freedom Scrolls will be signed by SAC students. These signatures, which are to remind signers of their obligation to "Fight communism with whatever means available," are going to be sent to Europe and placed in a shrine similar to that erected in Berlin last year.

As a result of last years drive a 35,000 watt short wave station was built which beams broadcasts into Czechoslovakia. This station sends news, conditions along the border and information to underground groups. This station is privately owned and operated by the Crusade for Freedom Funds.

Faculty Wives Club Hears New Zealander

The October meeting of the Faculty Wives Club of Santa Ana College was high-lighted by an informal talk by Mrs. Robert L. Larsen on New Zealand. Mrs. Larsen, a native of New Zealand, described the interesting points of difference between the educational systems of that country and of the United States. She also discussed the economics, the welfare agencies and the social life of her former homeland.

Mrs. Orville Knutsen was elected to serve as president of the group for the year. Mrs. Paul Andres is secretary-treasurer. New members welcomed into the group are Mrs. William Cipriano, and Mrs. Donald H. Rampton.

Members gathered at the home of Mrs. Harry des Granges. Assisting with the refreshments and sharing hostess duties were Mrs. Paul Andres, Mrs. J. Russell Bruff, and Mrs. A. J. Cook.

First place honors were won by the SAC dairy team at the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona, September 29, according to Paul E. Andres, agriculture department head. The team, made up of Miles Wemp, Santa Ana; Pat Lewis, Garden Grove; and Bill Lane, Anaheim took the first place cup in judging dairy cattle.

In the livestock judging competition, second place awards were captured by the SAC team consisting of Roger Hillman, Tustin; Bob Grant, Santa Ana; and Leroy Eisenbraun, Orange.

The poultry team with Lyle Johnson, Anaheim; Bob Wiseman and Glenn Garrett, Santa Ana, placed fourth.

Fair awards won by the SAC teams include 3 cups and 9 ribbons.

Ten teams representing Mt. San Antonio, Chaffey, Cal. Poly, Fullerton, Orange Coast, Chino, Antelope Valley, Pierce and SAC competed for fair honors in the judging contests.

Del Ano Staff Invites Student Aid

The "Del Ano" staff has invited all students, who are interested, to work on the preparation of the 1952 yearbook, announced Royal C. Marten, the staff advisor, recently.

Mr. Marten stated that definite assignments on projects have not been made and the services of anyone who is interested in art, photography or writing are needed. He may be contacted in F-55.

The literary and art staff, at the present time, consists of Elsie Kittelsen, Betsy Warren, Jeane Clavanch, who worked on the 1951 "Del Ano," and Susan Larmer, George Bartell, Phyllis Humbard, Judy Spalding, Donna Bake, Carol Purdie, and Charlene Hill, who are new recruits.

Heading the photography staff is Linus DeWald, who is assisted by Barry Babcock, Robert Burton, and Jerry Morrison.

The first major activity, which is scheduled for Saturday, October 13, will be a potluck dinner at the home of Mr. Marten.

Dons Plan Goblin's Gallop for Hallowe'en

"Goblin's Gallop is to be the name of the Hallowe'en Dance that will be held Friday, October 26 in the college Student Union," it was announced today by Russ Murphy, general chairman. Time will be from 9:00 to 12:00, and admission is 60 cents to ASB card holders and 75 cents to non-card holders.

The dance will not interfere with the Don's football schedule, as they have an open date that night.

Costumes are to be the proper dress for the occasion, although levis and cottons are permissible. Door prizes will be awarded to the man and to the woman having the best costumes.

Music by Starlighters

Music will be furnished by the Starlighters, a dance band from San Bernardino. According to ASB president, Quentin Gallivan, "The Starlighters are one of the finest combos in Southern California, and we are lucky to get them."

"Donuts and apple cider will be served as refreshments," it was stated by Refreshment Committee Chairman, Joanne Wells.

Sponsoring the dance is the freshman class, under direction of President Russ Murphy. Miss Agnes Todd Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Royal Marten are to be patrons. Judy Cordes is the member of the Executive Board who is advising the freshmen.

Charlene Hill and George Bartell will be in charge of the Decorations and Publicity, while Bob Elsner is head of the House Committee. House arrangements will be handled by Nancy Robison and Cleanup will be under the direction of Don Tibbets.

Col. H. O. Russell Returns to Calif.

Colonel H. O. Russell, former director and physics instructor at SAC, is returning to California. He is scheduled to give a series of six lectures on nuclear physics to officers at Moffet Field in Northern California, beginning October 3.

Col. Russell will be flying in the general's plane from the airplane research lab at Tullahoma, Tenn., where he is now stationed. He had hopes of arriving early enough to visit friends at Santa Ana and on the SAC campus before going north to resume duties there.

Col. Russell did a great deal of research work in World War II and is continuing his research at the present time. He is the holder of two Legion of Merit awards. Col. Russell studied at the University of Denver where he received his A.B. and M.A., in physics. He also did graduate work at the University of California at Berkeley.

He began teaching physics at SAC in September of 1924. A leave of absence was extended to him for military duties on April 1942. Returning to SAC in February of 1947 he again taught physics, and in July of 1947 he was appointed acting director of SAC. He held this position until June of 1949.

In September of 1949 Col. Russell returned to his old job of physics instructor and he remained there until June 1951, when he was again extended a leave of absence for active duty. The Climatic Control Hanger for airplanes in Florida is perhaps one of Col. Russell's greatest contributions to modern research.

The Maturing Mind

ROBERT HOUGLAND

The story of Newell L. Moore, M. D. The story of the attainment and loss of an ideal. The story of an individual, and, how that individual met, and solved his problem. The story of the maturing mind; the continuous growth in knowledge, and in the wise use of that knowledge.

Newell L. Moore was born in Evanston, Illinois. He came to Los Angeles with his parents when he was thirteen years old.

The Ideal

Newell had always wanted to be a doctor, and during the years spent in grammar, and high school this ideal grew more and more. Newell's parents had hopes that he would become a farmer, consequently, when the time came for him to start college his major was agriculture.

In the month of August, 1916, Newell enrolled at the University of California, at Berkeley. On paper it said that he was to study agriculture, but, in his heart it was written that he was to become a doctor. Newell managed to work a few of the courses required for pre-med into his schedule; this alleviated some of the anxiety caused by his desire to study medicine.

The first year of college was fast and happy. Newell was at peace in a peaceful world, but, not for long. The United States was at war. Early in 1917 Newell joined a national guard unit. He was sent to OCS, but, before he had a chance to complete his training to become an officer his unit was ordered overseas.

June, 1919, Newell was a civilian again. On paper the world was at peace, but, in the minds of man there was turmoil and chaos. Time was needed to stabilize one's thinking, so Newell went to work for an oil refinery. Later in life he was to be glad he took this brief digression. This work gave him a better understanding of himself, and of mankind. After more than a year of this work Newell felt that he was ready to go back to college.

The Attainment

This time it was Occidental. This time it was medicine from the year 1922, until 1929. In 1929, Newell L. Moore was graduated from medical college. He was thirty-five years old, but, this did not make any difference. He had his "feet on the ground," he knew where he was going.

Newell L. Moore, M. D., went to San Jose. In San Jose, at the beginning of his career as a doctor, Newell worked under another M. D. Times were hard. The "depression era" was at hand, but, Newell still had his feet on the ground. He still knew where he was going.

When Dr. Moore came to Santa Ana in 1932, his friends told him that he would not make a go of it. Times were too hard. As he looks back, however, Dr. Moore can smile. His record is too evident. At St. Joseph's hospital Dr. Moore was the Chief of the Pediatric Service. He was also on the staff of the Community Hospital. Beside these duties Dr. Moore had his private practice to take care of. The families and individual patients who depended on him to take care of their illnesses.

The War and After

Then there was another small matter to be taken care of. The second World War began. Dr. Moore spent four years as a medical officer during this second war. He went over-seas in June of 1943 as a captain, and returned in September, of 1945 as a Lt. Col. Dr. Moore spent these years in Europe, and, he adds these years to his education. In France he saw the changes that had occurred during the intervening years between the two wars. He saw the changes in industry, in the philosophy of the people. He knew that he had reached physical maturity; but, that mentally, he was still growing; and, he wanted to keep growing.

After the war Dr. Moore went back to his practice; he went back to the hospitals; the clinics; the families; the patients. He went back to the days of work, and the nights of thinking, and worrying about his job; about the people who were depending on him, but, the human organism can withstand only so much, and Dr. Moore was giving too much.

The Loss

1948, on the twenty-eighth of May, the years of work; of worry, overtook the physical capabilities of Dr. Moore. Physically he was unable to meet the demands required of him. Mentally he wanted to continue; there were so many things that he wanted, and could do, but, these years of devotion had taken their toll.

Dr. Moore was lost; these years of working for, and achieving his ideal were lost. He tried everything to keep his mind away from the thought that he could not go back to his job. The homesickness for his office; for the people who needed him; these things depressed him. He tried helping his wife with her household chores; he tried hobbies; nothing seemed to help. Physically he could not find an answer to his problem, but, mentally he was still growing.

Dr. Moore found that he could satisfy his urge to do something that would exercise his mind by reading. He started reading books. Books that he had always wanted to read; books that had been shelved years ago to make way for his duties as a doctor.

The Solution

When Dr. Moore's wife saw him reading she had an idea. Why couldn't he go back to school. He had four years of schooling under the G. I. Bill of Rights. It seemed like a good idea. It proved to be the right medicine.

Dr. Moore started back to school this summer. Once he was back in college his still growing mind saw a multitude of new problems which he could absorb himself in. Out of these problems still another grew. How could he express his ideas? He knew that he was not able to do it physically, but, mentally there was a way. Creative writing was the medicine. He could write, and in doing so, feel that he was accomplishing something.

Dr. Moore's education is still growing. He feels that he can learn from his new environment here at SAC. Now, he can study the subjects that have grown out of his experience. He feels that he can still learn more about himself, and about his fellowman.

As For Today

Dr. Moore has confidence in the student of today. He feels that the coming generation will be able to handle the problems of today. He feels that we "have our feet on the ground," and that we "know where

College Band, Drill Teams to Perform For Pros in Coliseum

Sunday, November 4, halftime activities at the L. A. Rams and San Francisco "49ers" football game in the coliseum will be conducted by the Dons and Saints combined bands and the college girl's drill team, which is now being formed. This game will be televised from coast to coast, game time 2:00 p.m.

Mr. Wheatley is asking for another twenty-five or thirty girls to sign up for this team. The drill team will be under the supervision of Mr. Wheatley and Miss Rellstab and will continue marching with the band for the remainder of the season. Uniforms have not yet been chosen but as soon as the team is organized the girls will be allowed to design their own. This group of girls will also perform with the massed bands and choirs at the SAC Turkey Day Game with Fullerton.

Wheatley said, "The members of the bands feel as I do, that this is the biggest thing that has come along so far in my two year period at SAC. We love to perform for our own students and that is the most important thing possible; but for an organization as big as the L.A. Rams to invite us to perform is a terrific tribute to Santa Ana. The bands and the administration are enthusiastic about the whole thing; but where is that loyalty and spirit we need to create a sensational drill team?"

There are several other junior colleges in Southern California that have drill teams and in my estimation there is no reason why SAC can't produce as good or better a team for our show routines.

This squad of girls will use snappy military drill steps and not the sloppy pom-pom routines of ordinary drill teams. Mr. Wheatley is patterning his drill team style along the lines of the Kilgore Rangerettes who in turn styled their routines after the New York City Rockettes.

The SAC and the high school were one of the two school districts to be so honored. Mr. Wheatley and Miss Rellstab are urging any girls who are interested in this drill team to sign up immediately with either of them.

Ex-El Don Editor Works as Reporter

Jane Lindemuth, former SAC student and co-editor of the EL DON, is now working as a full time reporter for the Long Beach Press-Telegram.

As co-editor of the EL DON, Lindemuth distinguished herself by writing a series of profiles on various students about the campus.

"We are going." He feels too, that we should prepare some vocation, or hobby that we may enter when the time comes for us to retire. Dr. Moore's retirement was forced upon him. He had to meet his problem with mental maturity. Dr. Moore feels that death comes quickly after retirement because people are not prepared to meet this period of life when they suddenly find themselves with nothing to do. They have stopped growing physically, and mentally.

Newell L. Moore, M. D., has added his name to one of the great jobs in life; that of medicine. Someday Dr. Moore hopes that his name will be added to still another great job; that of literature. We can rest assured that his name will be read on the roster of one great task; that of living, and learning to the end.

EDITORIAL

College students at Santa Ana College and at campuses throughout the country have fallen into a rut!

"Specializing" students are tending to devote all their energies to one phase of college life while shutting their eyes to other equally important phases. Those who specialize on the football field are content to spend their college life on the fifty yard line oblivious to what goes on around them unless it happens to be an opposing footballer. There are also those "social butterflies" who contribute nothing to the college alma mater but an occasional flit into social whirlpools.

To go on with this "scholastic specialization" there are those who content themselves only with mental gymnastics that is feeling that the valuts of the skull is a very convenient place to store "A's" and other academic honors.

It is not the policy of this paper to chastize those who are happy working and perfecting their own particular endeavor — but working in college — or any other place for that matter, it is necessary to strike a balance, a balance that swings happily for the benefit to the student and to the college.

Plato, in his Utopia, has said that the individual should spend half of his time in the gymnasium while spending the other half in cultural and academic pursuits. It is not necessarily Utopian to strike a happy balance in carrying out college activity, all that is necessary is to have "student ostriches" lift their beaks out of their own mudpiles and to simply look around and become aware that there is more to college life than one's own grind. — Nate Chroman

MODERN TRENDS IN LITERATURE — EXIT ROMANCE; ENTER REALISM

ROBERT HATCHER

Literature is the reflection of its age. Whether the literary achievements of a period are great is not important. What is important is the fact that literature written during a period gives us a picture of the existing thoughts and ideas which prevail.

It is interesting to note that during, or after, a great war, there appears to be a change in literature towards more realism in writing.

Perhaps Stephen Crane, Ambrose Bierce, and Frank Norris helped to initiate an abrupt change towards realism in writing, but there was a certain amount of realistic writing produced during the Civil War period. However, realism during this era was somewhat overshadowed by eloquence and romance.

Poetry More Realistic

The poetry of the Civil War lends more realism than prose as illustrated in the lines by Robert Burns Wilson: "Unmindful of his mortal wounds, He faintly calls and seeks to rise; But weakness drags him to the ground: — Such is the death the soldier dies."

Idealism Gives Way

The ideal which brought about the Civil War and the fury with which it was fought, undoubtedly brought about a more fatalistic view in thinking, and soldiers and writers changed their ideas from idealism to realism. Nathaniel Graham Shepherd, a soldier-poet, inspired by the heavy losses of the Vermont Brigade during the battle of the Wilderness in 1864, put into his poem, "Roll Call," a visual glimpse of men whose thoughts of war and life had changed: "There they stood in the failing light, These men of battle with grave dark looks." Those two lines express a feeling of somberness and an awareness of cold realism that the tragedies of war had at last come to a new meaning. War was not the glorious thing some of the young men of the day had been taught to think by recruiters. James Roche summed up his poem by stating his idea that soldiering is for one purpose, "to do and dare, and die at need, but while life lasts, to fight."

Wonder of Why

Outlooks were different on both sides during the war. Will Thompson, a Confederate soldier at fifteen, wrote these lines after the battle of Gettysburg: "Fold up the banners! Smelt the guns! Love rules. Her gentler purpose runs."

This thought, no doubt lived in the minds of the soldiers. But

Thompson, perhaps realizing the significance of the battle, saw the inevitable outcome of the war and put into words his conviction that life's purpose is for greater things than fighting a bloody battle for a lost cause. Romance is somewhat dead, but a breath still lingers. The feelings of a fighter shows melancholia and thoughts of home that bring doubts and wonder why such strife and struggle exists after such a great battle.

Apologia

Although numerous contributions were made to literature during the Civil War period, and a great number of literary geniuses existed, I have tried to bring into light the trend toward realism in writing as it existed during that era. The examples which I have used are by no means all, nor are they considered great. I do believe, however, that they do illustrate a definite trend toward the field of realism.

Andre's Agriculture Class to Broadcast

The agriculture extension service of Orange county, through Farm Advisor A. H. Holland, has made radio time available to the agriculture department of SAC for a program on station KVOE from 12:00 to 12:15, Wednesday, October 24.

A summary of the activities of the group will be presented. Students participating will relate their experiences during the year in taking part in the Young Farmer program. Those who will comment are Paul Borchard, Miles Wemp, Bill West, and others to be selected by Mr. Andre.

Mr. Carl Schulz Attends CTA Conference at Seeley

Mr. Carl Schulz, French and German Instructor at SAC, attended the Eleventh Annual Leaders Conference, for Local Teachers Associations, at Camp Seeley, September 28, 29 and 30.

Three other Santa Ana teachers were among the four hundred and fifty School Supervisors, Instructors and Teachers attending the Southern Section Conference, of the California Teachers Association. They were Thomas Zuch from Santa Ana High, Mel Hanard from Willard Junior High, and Doris Schenck from the Roosevelt School.

Two of the most important topics of the conference, according to Schulz were, "Local Public Relations Patterns," and "How the California Teachers Association Works on State Legislation."

Dr. Corey, Executive Secretary of the California Teachers Association, gave the closing address. Mr. Schulz said, "Dr. Corey's address was the highlight of the whole conference."

Student Loan Fund

A Student Loan Fund is available to students who wish to further their education but are financially unable to do so, it was announced today by J. Russell Bruff, Science instructor at SAC.

This fund was started by gifts from various individuals, clubs, and the P.T.A. The fund is not a scholarship, but a loan to be repaid when the student is able.

All students are eligible to apply for the loan if they can produce sufficient cause for the need of such a loan. However, students attending private schools will not be eligible to apply in so far as the fund is set up to purchase books and not pay tuition fee.

Dons Lose 41-7 to L. B.

TIME OUT!

By BOB ELSNER

Coach Bill Cook is appointing a different player each week to assist Captain Chuck Sitton. Last year, Sitton and Danny Prall were elected Co-Captains of the 1951 Dons, but Prall has been declared ineligible this year.

Halfback Herschel Musick has had more than his share of tough luck during his football career . . . but he hasn't given up!

As a sophomore in high school, he broke his leg playing "B" football. Two years later, as Captain of the Santa Ana High eleven, Musick broke his jaw in the first league game and was out for the rest of the year.

Last season, as a freshman with the Dons, he was troubled throughout the year with injuries. He earned his letter, however, and proved to be one of the best blockers in the College.

Again in 1951 he turned out for football at SAC. During the first few days of practice, Musick aggravated an old leg injury. He's still working out daily with the Don squad, but is favoring his injured leg considerably.

If the leg doesn't improve and he quits football this year, he will have another sason of eligibility left in the Eastern Conference, as he hasn't appeared or played in a game this season.

SAC ALUMNI FURTHER DON GRID TRADITION

Many former SAC pigskinners have left the Don gridiron stronghold to perform on various four year college aggregations throughout the nation.

Al Carmichael, halfback on the once-beaten 1949 outfit, played an important role in Southern California's football fortunes last year. Bob Buckley, SAC grad of '48, and Johnny Fouch are other Trojans who are slated to see plenty of action before the autumn is over. Fouch was one of the nation's outstanding junior college backs in 1948, tallying 102 points for the red and black.

Brancato at LSU

At Louisiana State University, scatback George Brancato was running with the first string until an injury forced him to the sidelines before the season got under way. Brancato was a member of the championship elevens of 1949 and '50.

Bob Zelinka is holding down a guard position at UCLA while further north, Kever Jankovitch is pivot man at COP, one of the Pacific Coast's top independents. Zelinka and Jankovitch played side by side on the Don forward wall of 1948-49.

Suffering their worst defeat in history at the Municipal Bowl, Santa Ana's Dons were outclassed by a power-laden Long Beach City College eleven last Friday night, 41-7.

It was evident that the Vikings had their eyes on the Little Rose Bowl again this year, as they "poured it on" the Dons.

Coach Buck Andreasen's talented Norsemen struck by both land and air. Their first tally came early in the game when "Rusty" Fairly passed to end Jack Swan for a 76-yard play that ended on the Don 2. Halfback Benny Aoki carried it over from there and also converted the extra point, making it 7-0.

Umphress Scores

El Don struck right back, however, as Bob Umphress, with the help of some good blocking, outran the Viking defenders on a 68-yard play. Curtis Meade added the extra point to tie the score, 7-7.

It was all Long Beach the rest of the way. Fairly again threw to end Swan who went all the way on a 57-yard play. Aoki converted to put Long Beach in front, 14-7.

In the second quarter, the Vikings pulled away, with fullback George Van Zant scoring twice, and Aoki converting a pair. At halftime, the score was 28-7.

Van Zant boomed 17 yards early in the third period to climax another Viking drive. Aoki again tallied the extra point to make it 35-7.

In the fourth quarter, following a Don fumble on their own 15, the Vikings scored their final tally, as Benny Aoki went around end from the four yard line. This time he failed to add the extra point, and the final score was 41-7.

Willsey Sparks Bears

Quarterback Ray Willsey is another ex-local who has made good at a larger institution. During his brief space of time with the California Bears, Willsey has already passed for one touchdown. He played for Santa Ana in 1949 and 1950.

Other Don gridders who played under the tutelage of Coaches Bill Cook and John Ward now cavorting on far-flung collegiate greenwards are Bob Miles, tackle on the 1947-48 squads who is performing for Tulsa; Fred Mirchoff, SAC fullback of 1949 and '50 now playing for Montana; and Herb Hill, Santa Ana Guard in 1948 and '49 now enrolled at Oxy.

Don Trio at Montana

Lloyd Thomas, halfback; and Bob Leonard and Dick Moomaw, ends, are a trio of ex-Dons from the 1948 and '49 elevens who are playing for Montana. Murray Adler, tackle, and Bob Reed, fullback, both lettered in 1949 and 1950 and are now at San Diego State. Jack Dooley, halfback in 1948 and '49 is at Cal Poly at San Dimas.

UMPHRESS STOPPED—Halfback Bob Umphress is unsuccessful in his try for yardage as several Long Beach defensive men halt his progress in last week's 41 to 7 Don defeat.

DONS OPEN CONFERENCE

Blair, Merker Named Captains For SAC Tennis

Bruce Blair and Dick Merker have been named co-captains of the SAC tennis squad this year and are the only two returning lettermen on the Don team.

Blair, number one man on the SAC squad, reached the finals of the Eastern conference tournament last year. He and Merker, number two player, will form the nucleus of this year's net team.

The rest of the tennis team will be formed from the Tuesday and Thursday tennis classes. These, and 11 o'clock session under PE instructor John Ward, and a 1 o'clock class under tennis coach Maurice Gerard, will be the "proving ground" of the SAC tennis team.

Five of the racquet aspirants are former members of Garden Grove high school's Orange league champion squad. They are Pat Lewis, Felix Martinez, Allan Fisher, Dalton Killian, and Harold Teague.

Santa Ana will host the Riverside Tigers tonight at the Municipal Bowl to open their Eastern Conference J. C. football schedule.

Bjorkland Wins Weekly Honor

Bob Bjorkland, husky SAC guard, has been named Don of the Week in Vandermast Clothing Store's weekly poll of Santa Ana College sports fans.

Bjorkland received the highest number of votes in last week's heavy balloting, with guard Milton Kravitz closely following in the tally.

The 220 pound six footer did an outstanding job on defense before being injured in the early minutes of the fourth quarter of Friday's Long Beach game.

Bjorkland is a graduate of Santa Ana high school and a pre-teaching major at SAC. He will receive a bronze key for winning the weekly honor and will have an action photo of himself posted in the Vandermast display window.

Artist's Conception of Tonight's Game

Getting off to a slow start the Dons dropped three out of their four pre-conference games to such potent foes as the El Toro Marines, Pasadena C. C., and last year's National Champions, Long Beach City College. However, coaches Bill Cook and John Ward expect the team to be in better shape to meet the conference competition than when they faced the non-league teams.

Speed Featured

The Santa Ana team's main weaknesses so far has been its lack of depth in both the line and backfield. Using one of the fastest backfield combinations he has ever had, Cook is depending on their speed to carry the Dons attack. The line weighs in with an average of 199 pounds and the backfield tips the scales with an average of 181, the team average being 190.

Bob Smith is the mainstay at the quarterback position with Floyd Strain and Bob Umphress the team's number one scorers, at the halfback spots and Milton Wikert handling the fullback chores. On the line, team captain Chuck Sitton and Frank Freeze are at the end positions with LeRoy Eisenbraun and Wayne Schnakenberg tackles, Marvin Kravitz and Bob Crumley guards, and Tom Moore at center.

Burns to Play

Dathan Burns, a standout on defense, played part of last week's game and is expected to see more action against Riverside, he is recovering from an ankle sprain received in the El Toro game. Denny Sampson and Wayne Schnakenberg are expected to be back in the lineup after missing last week's game because of injuries.
